Good Evening,

Axium live desktop version is now available. When you launch Axium from your desktop you will receive a message stating "You are running an older version of Axium, would you like to update?" respond "YES" and the new program files will copy to the computer (this may take a few seconds). We are still working to update files for the VDI and Citrix environments. A notification will be sent to everyone has we get these environments available to you once again.

Thank you,
