The University of Florida College of Dentistry (UFCD) is recruiting a full-time, tenure-accruing Associate/Full Professor in the Department of Periodontology. The University of Florida College of Dentistry (UFCD) is one of the leading dental schools in the United States, devoted to improving and promoting oral health throughout Florida, the nation and worldwide through excellence in teaching, research, patient care and service.

Responsibilities for this position will center on establishing a research program, and pre-doctoral and graduate level didactic, pre-clinical and clinical instruction, with the option to participate in intramural faculty practice. The position’s minimum requirements include a DDS, DMD or equivalent degree; advanced training in Periodontology from a CODA-accredited postgraduate program; and a minimum of five years of academic experience. Applicants for Associate/Full Professor should have a demonstrated high level of clinical research productivity, evidence of the ability to develop an independent and collaborative research program, plus a consistent record of publication in quality journals. Board Certification is strongly preferred. Other preferred qualifications include: training and experience in implantology, advanced surgical techniques, and previous teaching experience. Academic rank will be commensurate with the candidate’s credentials and experience, with an attractive salary and benefit package.

The University of Florida, a member of the AAU, is the largest and most comprehensive public university in the state of Florida, with large undergraduate, graduate, and postgraduate educational programs. The UF Health Science Center and its six colleges (Dentistry, Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy, Public Health and Health Professions, Veterinary Medicine) are co-located on the Gainesville campus, with additional teaching, research, and patient care sites across Florida, and internationally.
